Call for proposals

We are inviting proposals for a one-day symposium on Amy Lowell and the wide network of poets, editors, and critics involved in the Imagist(e) movement. We are casting a broad net, including Lowell and the poets affiliated with the anthology series Some Imagist Poets, 1915, 1916, 1917 (Richard Aldington, H.D., John Gould Fletcher, F. S. Flint, and D. H. Lawrence), as well as other poets and editors with affiliations to Imagism, such as Bryher, Ezra Pound, May Sinclair, Ford Madox Ford, Harold Monro, Harriet Weaver, Margaret Anderson, and Harriet Monroe.

Along with 20-minute academic papers, we welcome proposals for creative responses to Lowell and her networks—which may include performance, film, audio, visual arts, and new imaginings or translations of Imagist poems.

Please send proposals of up to 250 words along with a brief biography to amylowellcentenary@gmail.com by October 15, 2024. We welcome inquiries and questions in advance of submitting a proposal.

Committee of organization: Melissa Bradshaw, Oriane Chevalier, Anne Fernald, Sarah Parker and Hannah Roche.
